PERFORMANCE BULLETIN

FUND MANAGER COMMENT

Market Overview

- August proved a torrid month for equity markets as slowing economic data, coupled with concerns over the Eurozone debt crisis pushed stocks sharply lower. Many markets suffered their worst falls since 2008 although some respite came towards the end of the month as equities rallied from oversold positions.
- Much of the pain came from Europe where spreads on Italian and Spanish bonds started to climb to problematic levels and the ECB (European Central Bank) was forced to step in and buy bonds in an effort to drive yields down. Sentiment was not improved when Standard and Poors downgraded the US from AAA to AA.
- On a sector basis Industrials and financials bore the brunt of the sell off with banks and miners in particular showing sharp losses as investors sought more defensive positions in utilities and pharmaceuticals. Elsewhere yields of core sovereign debt tightened as a flight to quality accompanied the equity sell off. Gold also rallied strongly breaching the $1900 an ounce level.

Outlook

- Whilst the headwinds of slower growth and the Euro debt crisis leave an increased chance of continued volatility, we hope to see markets improve as we head into the end of the year. Further stimulus measures from central banks appear likely, corporate earnings numbers should remain strong and valuations look compelling.
